

Save the Date!

EXEMPT WELLS: PROBLEMS AND APPROACHES IN THE NORTHWEST

Specialty Conference

May 17-18, 2011

Marcus Whitman Hotel
Walla Walla, Washington

Purpose:

The conference will provide a forum for professionals engaged in water policy development, water management, land planning and development to discuss the impacts of exempt domestic wells and the track record of different policy and management approaches. The goal is to identify current approaches and stimulate new ideas that can satisfy human needs while helping to sustain water, land and energy resources in the northwestern states.

Format:

Plenary sessions will begin and conclude the day-and-a-half conference. The core of the event will be working breakout sessions focused on individual aspects of the issue.

Who should participate:

Water policy-makers from state and local government
Water attorneys
Water managers from local, state and federal agencies
Land-use planners
Realtors and developers
Well drillers.

Organizers and contacts:

The university water resources research institutes of Washington, Montana, Idaho, Colorado and Oregon are organizing the conference. To be placed on the contact list, or to explore speaking, sponsorship or display opportunities, please contact:

- Washington: Mike Barber, (509)335-1590, meb@wsu.edu
- Montana: Gretchen Rupp, (406)994-6690, grupp@montana.edu
- Idaho: John Tracy, (208)332-4422, tracy@uidaho.edu
- Colorado: Reagan Waskom, (970)491-6308, Reagan.Waskom@ColoState.edu
- Oregon: Todd Jarvis, (541) 737-4032, todd.jarvis@oregonstate.edu

Future URL: <http://www.swwrc.wsu.edu/conferences.asp>